

This Calls For Danger
Written and Performed by Brett Oddly
Daily, July 19th - 30th, 2023
Venue 15- Royal Albert

The Winnipeg Fringe' most dangerous show!

Winnipeg, What is the human truly capable of? For over 100 years the sideshows travelled hand in hand with the big top circuses, (and so it's fitting that Brett will be performing a mere block away from fringe central). They sought to wow and amaze audiences everywhere they went. It was here that the exploration of what the body is capable of. Audiences are sure to be amazed at the combination of sideshow stunts and escapology.

In This Calls For Danger Brett oddly performs a plethora of classic and modern sideshow stunts including escapology. The dangers contained within the show are real, but with years of practice and training Brett Oddly can perform them all flawlessly to the astonishment of the audience. Finally, Brett will replicate the same stunt as Harry houdini did just 1 kilometre away in 1923. A hanging Straight jacket escape.

This Calls For Danger is written and performed by Brett Hogan, under the pseudonym Brett Oddly. Brett currently lives just outside of Winnipeg in Blumenort, MB. Previously Brett had a successful magic show at the Winnipeg fringe called Worst Case Magic. He is a multi talented performer who can consider some of the best talent his mentors. Most recently being mentored by Dean Gunnarson and travelling the world working on his danger and escape shows. His past clients and events include The Winnipeg blue bombers (3 years), Samsung, Investors Group, A season with crossfire Bullriding, Canad Inns, The Booby Ball, Consulting and Aiding with high risk stunts/shows in China and more.

Having Brett on your show means that he will come and promote his show as well as perform a feat, which can include showing how to escape when your hands are bound by duct tape.

Written, Directed and starring Brett Hogan as Brett Oddly, With on stage assisting by Isabelle Hamel.
